

COORDINATED LAND USE AND TRANSPORTATION PLANNING TASK FORCE

July Focus: Expanding Walkable North Texas

In 2018, George Washington University’s “WalkUP Wake-Up” report mapped the region’s walkable centers. Since then, North Texas walkable centers, main streets, and downtowns have spread rapidly, as existing walkable places expand and new walkable centers emerge.

What defines these places as walkable? What makes them important to the region? How are municipalities supporting this growth?

Join the upcoming task force meeting to contribute to the discussion and hear from local governments using partnerships and planning tools to implement walkable places across the metroplex.
